The importance of regular dental care has been explained to me, and I understand that my Ohio Sleep Treatment dentist will not be responsible for providing my preventative or emergency dental needs. At this time, I choose to have my routine and necessary dental care completed in another office.

Informed Consent for the Treatment of Sleep-Related Breathing Disorders with Oral Appliance Therapy Obstructive Sleep Apnea

You have been diagnosed by your Physician as requiring treatment for a sleep-related breathing disorder (SRBD), such as snoring, Upper Airway Resistance Syndrome (UARS), and/or Obstructive Sleep Apnea (OSA). SRBDs may pose serious health risks since it disrupts normal sleep patterns and can reduce normal blood oxygen levels. This condition can increase your risk for excessive daytime sleepiness, driving and work-related accidents, high blood pressure, heart disease, stroke, diabetes, obesity, memory and learning problems, and depression.

What is Oral Appliance Therapy?

Oral appliance therapy (OAT) utilizes a custom-made, adjustable FDA-cleared appliance specifically made to assist breathing by keeping the tongue and jaw in a forward position during sleeping hours. To derive the benefits of OAT, the oral appliance must always be worn when you sleep.

Benefits of OAT

OAT has effectively treated many patients. However, there are no guarantees that it will be effective for you. Every patient's case is different, and there are many factors that influence the upper airway during sleep. It is important to recognize that even when the therapy is effective, there may be a period of time before the appliance functions maximally. During this time, you may still experience symptoms related to your sleep related breathing disorder. Additionally, durable medical equipment such as your oral appliance requires specific homecare, maintenance, and periodic replacement.

Possible Risks, Side-Effects, and Complications of OAT

With an oral appliance, some patients experience excessive salivation, difficulty swallowing (with appliance in place), sore jaws or teeth, jaw joint pain, dry mouth, gum pain, and short-term bite changes. It is possible to experience dislodgement of dental restorations, such as fillings, crowns, or bridges. Most of these side effects are minor and resolve quickly on their own or with minor adjustment of the appliance. Long-term complications include bite changes that may be permanent resulting from tooth movement or jaw joint repositioning. These complications are typically progressive and may or may not be fully reversible once OAT is discontinued. It is mandatory for you to complete follow-up visits with the dentist who provided your oral appliance to ensure proper fit and optimal positioning. If unusual symptoms or discomfort occur or if pain medication is required to control discomfort, it is recommended that you cease using the appliance until you are evaluated further. Follow-up assessments are necessary to assess your health and monitor your progress. Once your oral appliance is in an optimal position, a reevaluation visit with your referring physician is necessary to verify that the oral appliance is providing effective treatment.

Morning Repositioner/AM Aligner use

I acknowledge that non-compliance with my of Morning Repositioner/AM Aligner may result in bite change. If I experience bite changes, I will notify Ohio Sleep Treatment at once. If my Morning Repositioner/AM Aligner is lost, stolen, or no longer useable, I will contact Ohio Sleep Treatment for a replacement.

Alternative Treatments for Sleep-Related Breathing Disorders

Other accepted treatments for sleep-related breathing disorders include positive airway pressure (PAP) therapy, various surgical and implant procedures, and positional therapy (which prevents patients from sleeping on their back instead of their side). The risks and benefits of these alternative treatments should be discussed with your physician who diagnosed your condition and prescribed treatment. It is your decision to choose OAT alone or in combination with other treatments to treat your sleep-related breathing disorder. However, none of these may be completely effective for you. It is your responsibility to report the occurrence of side effects and to address any questions to:
